MINUTES

Presentation by Deborah Young, Executive Lead, Indigenous Achievement

Roger Wilson asked whether there is any role for a retiree to her area of expertise. She replied that Tom Berry is helping plan a program in Science and she would be very interested in any academic expertise.

Amanda McMullin commented that it would be a good idea to have a student representative on some of the working groups that Ms. Young is developing.

Dean Taylor noted that there is a lot of indigenous teaching and research being done in Arts and he is looking forward to working with her in the future.

3. Business arising from the minutes

There was no business arising.

4. New Business

4.1 Course Programs & Approval Committee Terms of Reference

Dean Taylor noted that the most substantive changes to the terms had been done under “purpose”.

Dean Taylor noted that CPAC has, in the past, sent a summary report of the changes to Executive Committee, which was then forwarded to Faculty Council for information only. When the committee reviewed its terms of reference it was deemed necessary to clarify this section to reflect what past practice has been. There has been delegation of this authority to Executive Committee, however Executive Committee does not have the power to approve. Approving these changes would necessitate a change to Faculty Council Bylaws, as Executive Committee’s terms of reference are contained those bylaws.

B. O’Kell noted that any discrepancies are thoroughly discussed by CPAC before it is brought forward. He also noted that Faculty Council does have the option of returning an item to CPAC if Council has questions or concerns. B. Ferguson added that there is a representative from each Department on CPAC. Dean Taylor noted that there is a timeliness problem with moving items through to Faculty Council, as Faculty Council would have to be held in August to make the September Senate committee deadlines.

MOTION: That the Course Programs & Approval Committee Terms of Reference be approved as submitted. (T. Chen)

5. Reports of the Dean and Associate Deans

5.1 Dean’s Report

Dean Taylor added that the Strategic Resource Planning Advisory Committee had its first meeting yesterday and has begun drafting next year’s submission. He has not received the memo from the Vice President’s Office indicating what the submission date will be, but he is anticipating it will be due in early February. The committee will be meeting weekly during January.

E. Comack commented that she is on the SRPAC. She noted that in previous years the Dean drafted and submitted the plan on his own. She appreciates the change in the process this year with Dean Taylor, noting that he has asked for widespread input and the attention to process is significant.

5.2 Associate Deans’ Reports

T. Chen asked what the status of the classroom allocation project is, as well as whether this new process is actually taking into account the issues currently taking place, like overcrowding.

B. Ferguson indicated that originally there was no consideration for these concerns. He felt, however, that it was very important to establish criteria for safety, accessibility and that the strategic plan reflects the classroom learning environment. He added that any concerns faculty members may have should be emailed to him so he can compile a report by late January. It has been determined that 312 Tier has been deemed our worst class room. It has 88 seats and according to the fire code it should only have 60 seats.

6. Question Period

Question 1 - “During the probationary faculty member search processes, departments select five names. Deans choose three from this five-person list. Deans also choose two faculty members as their representative (one must be outside the department, one may be from the same department). Of all searches going on in the Faculty of Arts right now (specifically of all search committees determined as of Nov 23, 2011), in which searches the dean selected his representative from the same department but that representative’s name was not on the department’s selected five-people list.”

Relevant Article 18 Language:
18.B.2.2: “...a search committee normally composed of five (5) persons (exclusive of the dean/director and any student participation), as follows, shall be appointed by the dean/director:”

18.B.2.2.1: “At least three (3) of those persons appointed to the committee shall be selected from a list of five (5) persons recommended to the dean/director by the academic staff members with faculty rank of the department meeting in committee”

18.B.2.2.5: “At least one faculty member from a related discipline will normally be involved.”

Dean Taylor explained that he would answer the question, notwithstanding Articles 8.3.3 and 8.3.4 of the “Rules and Procedures Governing Meetings of the Arts Faculty Council.”

According to his records, with respect to the search committees currently constituted, there are two cases in which the 4th or 5th member is from the department in which the search is being conducted but the individuals so selected were not on the list recommended to me by the department’s academic staff members with faculty rank.

A follow up question was raised asking “How many searches are or have been underway this fall?” The Dean responded that he believed that about ten searches are or have been underway this fall.

Question #2 - Dr. Fernandez asked whether more information could be shared regarding the proposal for a CRC in Second Language acquisition and a CIHR in Gender Health and how it would impact his department. R. Hoppa explained that if a chair is awarded to the faculty, a search committee will be struck with the departments affected. He explained further that the second language acquisition chair is multi-faceted and would involve several departments.

Question #3 - E. Comack asked whether any information could be shared regarding the CRC in Social Justice. Dr. Hoppa indicated the Search is ongoing.

Dean Taylor wished everyone a restful holiday break and reminded committee members that the Arts Holiday Reception was taking place tomorrow at 3:00 p.m. in 600 Fletcher Argue.

Dean’s Report to Faculty Council, February 2012

Strategic Resource Planning

This will be the subject of a separate discussion.

2011-12 Expenditure Initiatives

The Associate Deans and I have initiated a number of projects since December to enhance the student experience, for faculty development, and to support research.

These include the following:

Undergraduate research symposium
Additional funds for students studying abroad
Funds for thesis completion
Funds for student conference travel
Additional student bursaries
Graduate student support
Arts Student Body Council Second Floor, Fletcher Argue renovations
Sessional Professional Development Allowance

ROSE Initiatives

Concur

The Dean’s office will be conducting a survey of Arts staff, after a reasonable introductory period, to determine the impact of Concur on operations and workload.

IT Shared Services

I am in continuing discussions with the Chief Information Officer about the IT Shared Services model. IT’s current schedule is to conduct an inventory in February-March 2012, do a workload analysis and assessment in April-May 2012, and roll out of a new model in Arts sometime between June and December 2012. I have been assured that any new model will be developed collaboratively.

Marketing and Communications

Marketing and Communications will be talking with us in the near future about how we can best coordinate our efforts. This will not necessarily result in our marketing and communications staff person leaving the Faculty.
Confucius Institute

The University of Manitoba Faculty Association’s January newsletter contained an extensive discussion of the Confucius Institute and its possible relationship with the University of Manitoba. The administration is not involved in any discussions with the Confucius Institute regarding a possible collaboration. It may be the case that one or more academic units are involved in discussions. If so, any proposal would have to move through the regular approval processes, including Senate.

Academic Structure Review

Everyone will have received President Barnard’s letter of 19 January 2012 about the University of Manitoba’s academic structure. To this point there have been no specific discussions with me about any changes to the Faculty of Arts. I think it would be prudent, though, for us to discuss our own internal academic structure as part of our anticipated strategic planning process later in 2012.

Promotions

Seventeen promotion recommendations went forward from the Faculty of Arts in January 2012.
Barry Ferguson

Report to Heads/Faculty Council

1. Curriculum: reminder about upcoming CPAC deadline:
   Final deadline for submission of course changes in the Dean's Office is: May 15, 2012
   Library Deadline is April 15

2. Classroom Bookings: the Ad Astra system requires more information and Arts is forced to ask much more of this information than in the past; the implementation process continues with further information being presented to Deans' offices in a workshop on Feb. 6

3. Survey of Office, Research and Classroom space: Thanks to all who completed the survey, which will be used for the current SRP process and conveyed to Physical Plant; serious inadequacies in classroom facilities have been made clear from the surveys; problems with graduate student and other research space has been noted; many limitations in current office/administrative space have been made clear

4. Key Policy: a new key policy has been drafted. It retains overall coordination of keys in the Dean's Office but responds to concerns raised by individual units and the Arts Support Staff Council. This policy pertains to office keys only.

   - one individual from each Department/Unit will be responsible for individual office keys WITHIN the unit

   - overall coordination and issuing of keys remains in the Dean's Office

   - individual faculty will be required to fill out a permission slip regarding access under the new system

   - key security and replacement policy remains as at present; no "master" keys will be issued, lost
     keys will be charged to the unit, lock changes must be completed at the Faculty level

   - the Dean's Office will continue to provide back up in extenuating circumstances

Current Activities

- Ongoing Discussion with RDC to establish a satellite facility on the Fort Garry Campus.

  Arts will coordinate with the RDC to establish and operate a satellite facility. The RDC is currently undergoing some infrastructure changes, and we will coordinate establishing a facility based in Arts, in consultation with Statistics Canada. It is likely that this will have 2-4 terminals and initially opened for 1-2 days per week depending on interest. Other interested Faculties on campus will be polled to participate. It is anticipated that this will happen in next fiscal year (2012/13). Arts Indirect Costs of Research submission included funding in support of the development and operation of such a facility.

Associate Dean-Undergraduate Update to Department Heads and Faculty Caucus

01 February 2012

1. Harmonizing Penalties and Academic Procedures between the Faculties of Arts and Science

Staff and faculty from the Faculties of Arts and Science have been meeting to harmonize our standing rules with regard to penalties for academic dishonesty, discussing our policies regarding transfer students, minimum GPA to be recognized on the Dean’s Honours List, and the number of Ds and Fs needed to put students on probation or suspension. Prior to the introduction of Aurora, academic assessment rules were fairly similar. As a result of the introduction of the new Aurora Student program, our penalties and academic regulations have drifted apart. Given that both Arts and Science will have direct entry of high school students, the faculties believe that we should work more closely together to provide similar academic standing rules. The Arts Regulations Policy Committee will be reviewing 4 proposals to harmonize regulations governing 1) academic standing rules; 2) admission to Arts and Science from University 1; 3) transfer students admissions; and 4) dean’s honours list criteria.

In addition, Associate Dean Michele Piercy-Normore (Science) and I have been in discussion regarding the harmonization of penalties for academic dishonesty and are also working together to create common academic integrity materials to be distributed to students and faculty members to try to address what we perceive to be a growing problem.

2. Important information from IST

There are several important changes to computing on campus that your faculty members should be made aware:

- Desire2Learn is our new ‘learning management system’ and will be introduced in summer 2012. It replaces ANGEL. Blackboard and Moodle were also considered but were rejected as suitable replacements. Desire2Learn is a Canadian company and will work directly with the University to solve problems as they arise. A two year deal has been signed, though the University is already in talks to extend this contract. CIO Michael Langedock has been informed that the professors will need significant lead time to migrate their courses to this new platform and that our preference would be to contract a company for long-term service provision. A launch date for the new system has yet to be announced.

- An ‘email for life’ system will be introduced for all alumni. Once a student has ceased studies at the University, their email address will automatically be transferred to a gmail account with our name on it. Details to follow.

- IST is still investigating ongoing problems with SPSS

- A new email communications strategy will be introduced at Senate. This strategy will make it mandatory that students check their U of M email accounts. At this time, it is very difficult to contact students electronically given that most do not regularly check this account.

3. Ad-Astra Update (the classroom management system)

The University continues to work on implementing the new classroom booking system so that it is operational in time for the launch of the 2012/13 Calendar. This program is complicated and has resulted in a significant ‘learning curve’ for staff in the Dean’s office as well as in your departments. We thank everyone for their hard work and for their understanding of delays and difficulties. Vicky Warkentin has recently contacted the department heads with a request for more detailed information regarding the room and instructor characteristics. This information will be programmed into the system and it is important that it accurately reflect the needs of the instructor. We realize this is a complicated, time consuming task and if you have questions, please contact us.

4. Supplemental Instruction and Learning Communities

University 1 is willing to pay for one or two pilot tests of supplemental instruction within our Faculty for Fall/Winter 2012/13. Supplemental instruction works much like a tutorial. Students meet with a TA outside of class time (this is voluntary) at a specified location and time (students register in Aurora). The sessions are usually 45 minutes long with the TA reviewing course material and preparing questions for the students to discuss. Students may bring their own questions regarding course material to the session. Chemistry and Accounting are currently piloting supplemental instruction. I am looking for one or two professors to volunteer to participate in this initiative. Please contact me.

Three learning communities will be piloted next fall. An initiative of University 1, St. Paul’s College and St. John’s College, the learning community will try to place students from the two colleges with similar interests in the same sections of first year courses. Next year, one section of Arts 1110, one section of Psychology 1200 and one section of Sociology 1200 will participate.

5. Direct Entry-Faculty of Arts

The Faculty of Arts’ proposal for direct entry was passed during the meeting of Senate (11 January 2012). Our first direct entry students will begin their studies in Fall 2013. This change has some implications for the Dean’s office, namely more resources will be needed for student advising as these tasks will no longer be directed by University 1. We will need to develop and participate more directly in the three Orientation events (June, August and September) organized by the Registrar’s Office.

6. Undergraduate Program Reviews

The site visits for Economics (October 2011) and German and Slavic Studies (January 2012) are now completed. The Dean’s office waits for receipt of the external reviews. Site visits for Religion and Psychology are scheduled for March. English and Sociology will follow in Fall 2012. Due to changes in the guidelines, CVs for all faculty members will now be part of the self-report.

7. Ensuring your department websites contain the correct information

The Dean’s office has seen a few cases where information on the department’s website is incorrect and this has caused some serious problems with regard to students’ eligibility to graduate. In one instance, a department had the incorrect information regarding the minimum number of credits from the University of Manitoba needed to fulfill the residency requirement. The student thought she was eligible to graduate but technically was not. Standardized wording, particularly in regard to degree and residency requirements, must be used. We strongly suggest that websites provide a link to the appropriate section of the Undergraduate Calendar rather than repeat the wording as Calendar entries change from year to year and without notice.

8. Communication

As most of you know, the University is working to centralize communication. This has resulted in the creation of the Marketing and Communication Office, along with changes to how the University advertises and recruits students. We are reminding department heads that any advertisements, posters or other printed communication, including your department brochures, be submitted to Shawn Jordan in our office prior to publication. She will ensure that your publication contains the most up-to-date version of the University’s logo, meets font, spacing and other specifications, and in the instance of department brochures, that they follow the format used by the other departments in our unit. Finally, the Dean’s office is working with a professional company to rewrite and reorganize the Arts Student Handbook. We look forward to sharing the new product with you in summer 2012.

9. Student Advising Review
The University is preparing for a review of undergraduate and graduate student advisors. I am currently on the working group devising the terms of reference. We will be conducting focus groups and surveys of advisors, professors and students in the coming months. We may be contacting your department.

10. Space reserves working group
The Registrar’s office is reducing or eliminating the assignment of reserve space for some classes. For example, your course may have 10 places reserved for students from Human Ecology but the course typically is only taken by 3 Human Ecology students. By using historical data, the Registrar’s Office would like to reduce the number of spaces held in reserve in these cases. One of the early outcomes of this process is that the terms of reference for the Service Course Policy (our governing document) are being reviewed. I will provide more details as they become available. I understand the importance of space reserves for courses and am actively advocating that this policy remain where appropriate.

11. Bachelor of Arts Integrated Studies: update
In November, the BAIS committee met and accepted 18 new applicants to the program. Our next admission meeting occurs in March. This May, 4 students have graduated to date, with another two to follow during Spring 2012 convocation.

12. Carla Thorlakson Award
Six students were awarded bursaries, fellowships or scholarships in December 2011. All but one is a student from the Faculty of Arts. Please encourage eligible students to apply for this award next October.

13. Thanks
